As part of a national public service program, a Penn Medicine Princeton Health board certified dermatologist will perform full-body skin examinations by appointment. Nationwide, this annual program has conducted more than 2.5 million screenings and detected over 250,000 suspected skin cancer lesions and more than 28,000 suspected melanomas.

This program is provided in support with the Edward & Marie Matthews Center for Cancer Care. Princeton Medical Center is accredited as a Comprehensive Community Cancer Program by the American College of Surgeons Commission on Cancer (CoC).
